Ames' list; that Ames charged him with being one of his distributees; explained to him the character, origin and objects of the Credit Mobiller; pointed out the connection it had with Congressional legislation, and showed him how impossible it was for a member of Congress to hold stock in it without bringing his private interests in conflict with his public duty. That all this was to him a perfectly new revelation I am as sure as I can be of such a fact, or of any fact which is capable of being proven enly by moral circumstances. He then told me the whole story of Train's offer to him said Ames' subsequent solicitation and his action in the premises, much as he detailed it to the committee. I do not undertake to reproduce the conversation, but the effect of it all was to convince me thoroughly that when he listened to Ames he was perfectly unconscious of anything evil. I watched carefully every word that fell from him on this point, and did not regard his narrative of the transaction in other respects with much interest, because in my view everything else was insignificant. I did not care whether he had made a bargain technically or not; his integrity depended upon the question whether he acted with his eyes open. If he had known the true character of the proposition made to him he would not have endured it, much less embraced it.

Now, couple this with Mr. Ames' admishe would not have endured u, embraced it.

Now, couple this with Mr. Ames' admission that he gave no explanation whatever of the matter to General Garfield, then reflect that not a particle of proof exists to show that he learned anything about it previous to his conversation with me, and I think you will say it is altogether unjust to put his on the list of those who knowingly and wilfully joined the fraudulent association in question.

TESTIMONY OF SENATON THURMAN, OF OHIO, AND THE NEW YORK WORLD.
From the New York World, October 10, 1873.
Senator Thurman lets up on General

Garfield, of Ohio, in this amiable fashion Garfield, of Ohio, in this amiable fashion:

"Oakes Ames swore that Garfield got ten shares, and Garfield says that he did not do anything of the kind. There was a good deal of talk, but no proof against him, and I am compelled to say that Garfield gets out of it better than anybody clee, and, on the whole, there was not sufficient evidence to fasten the corruption at his door."

After considering all the testimony, on the whole we concur in this view of Mr. Garfield's connection with the Credit Mobilies FROM A DEMOCRATIC FELLOW-CONGRESSMAN

Hon, R. Milton Speer, Democratic mem-ber of the Forty-third Congress from Pennsylvania, and recent chairman of the Democratic State Committee, on his return ocratic State Committee, on his return from Cincinnati addressed a Democratic ratification meeting at Pittsburgh, in the course of which he remarked:

"This is my first public utterance since the Chicago nomination, and I desire to say right here that I served four years in Congress with General Garfield. I know him well and I honor him for his honesty, his integrity, his shilly, his breadth of knowledge, and his uppright character. But he represents the party of sectionalism, whilst General Hancock represents a united North and South."

FROM HON, LUKE P. POLAND, OF VERMONT COMMITTEE OF 1878.

COMMITTEE OF 1878.

"I only desire to have an opportunity to express to the Convention and to Republicans everywhere my entire approval of the nomination made at Chicago. Probably no man in Vermont knows General Garfield more intimately than myself. He was in Congress during the whole of my ten years' service, and for eight years we stood together in the House, and ever on terms of friendship and intimacy. Of his eminent ability, power in debate, and untiring devotion to public service, I need not speak. His long service and leading position in Congress have made them known to all the people of the country who take any interest in public affairs. But our political opponents affect to question his personal integrity and purity of character, and to base their accusations upon the evidence taken before, and report of a committee of Congress, of which I was chairman, known as the Credit Mobilier committee. Now, I desire to say to the convention, and to all who may feel any interest in my opinion of Gen. Garfield, that nothing which appeared before that committee, or which appears in their report, or any other matter or thing which speraced before that committee, or which appears in their report, or any other matter or thing which speraced before that committee, or which appears in their report, or any other matter or thing which speraced before that committee, or which appears in their report, or any other matter or thing which speraced before that committee, or which appears in their report, or any other matter or thing which speraced before that committee, or which appears in their report, or any other matter or thing integrity. I believe him to a thoroughly which ever came to myknowledge in regard to him, ever led me to doubt his personal integrity. I believe him to a thoroughly upright and honest man, and one who would be so under all circumstances and sgainst any temptation. The use that is being made of my name and of the report of the committee which was drawn by me, in my opinion, makes it proper for me to carries my personal judgment as to the character of the man."

The speaker then went on in his shot-gun manner to illustrate the blessings of Greenbackism. In the course of his remarks he alluded to the nominees of the Republican and Democratic parties. Garfield and Arthur were only alluded to in a passing manner. English, he paid his respects to as follows: "Bill English is the meanest usurer, the worst labor robber and the dirtiest ahylock in Indiana, and I ask in the name of God what principle of Democracy he represents." "Hancock is not in any way fitted for the position, educated as he has been in an aristocratic school, his political knowledge and education must, of necessity, be limited."

The speaker then proceeded to relate his experience in the South, and in Alabama particularly. He had been used very well there, he said, until about the time of the election when he went to Choctaw county for the purpose of participating in a joint discussion with the Democrats. Mr. Yockey, by the way, conducts an independent newspaper.

The excursionists were much pleased with their visit, returning home at 5:30 o'clock last evening.

If there had only been some intimation that so large a number was coming our citigens would, no doubt, have made preparations to entertain them. As it was the time was so short and every place had to be visited in such a hurried manner, that the visitors were only enabled to obtain a superficial glimpse at our industries and points of interest. We only hope they enjoyed themselves so well that they will come again.

KIDNEY AND LIVER CURE.

To the Readers of the Intelligencer.

It is well known that hot weather brings sickness and that the greatest care is necessary to prevent disorders even on the part of those most healthy. What there is in the heat that should cause disease cannot certainly be known, but cholera, dysentery, debility, lassitude, vertigo and many other sudden and dangerous maladies come every season and cause great suffering and thousands of deaths. Few people go through the Sun unpleasant symptoms. The mouth becomes dry and parched, the tongue furred with white, the pulse irregular, the head feverish, the body cramped and limbs wollen and tired. Ladies especially, with their natural delicacy and tendency to female troubles, find the hot weather almost unbearable, while little Children are dying every day from exhaustion and because Parents neglect precaution and care. A prominent and well known physician of New York asserts as his positive belief that more than three-sourths of all so-called Summer complaints arise from disordered secretions, and that these secretionary organs, which, by being out of order cause so much trouble, are the kidneys and liver. The brain controls the life, but the lower part of the body rules the health.

There is one, and only one known vegetable that will absolutely regulate and control the Kidneys and Liver at all times and thus prevent the many dangers of the Summer. That vegetable (a West India leaf,) is used as the basis of Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Oure. It is pure, pleasant to the taste and absolutely certain in its results. It keeps those who intelligently use it in perfect health, and cures those whose secretions are deranged. For all uniary complaints of either sex it is infallible. For all billous troubles it is certain. For the hot season it is invaluable and every person of care and intelligence should not fail to keep Warner's Safe Kidney and Liver Cure near at hand, and use it upon the approach of the slightest symptoms.

It may save your life or that of some dear friend; it will certainly prevent much suffering. It is for sale by druggists in all parts of the world; be careful and take no other. "A word to the wise is sufficient."
